

Thank you so much for honoring IM and Humanium metal with the One Wish award. We strongly believe in the Humanium metal project and see it as one of the most innovative ideas at the moment. We have many years of experience of working in development collaboration, humanitarian aid, and have seen the devastating effects of armed violence.

We have our expertise. In order for this project to further develop we have identified a number of thresholds where your advice is highly appreciated and needed – what we really need – AND WISH FOR – in order for this project to take off is your knowledge and expertise in areas such as the sourcing of materials, how to calculate and secure the industrial production process of the metal itself, coordinating sales and marketing efforts and also the opportunity to secure more long term collaborations for the future.

And, of course we are also interested in a dialogue regarding the purchase of the metal itself. Our wish and hope now is that you will want to join hands with us, and also to connect us with other potential partners, in contributing to the reduction and spread of illegal firearms, in order to end armed violence which is crucial to sustainable development at large and sustainable development goal 16 more in particular.

So our very specific “one wish” is therefore that we join hands and together secure all the important parts of the value chain.

Ann Svensén
Secretary general
IM, Individuell Människohjälp -
Swedish Development Partner

